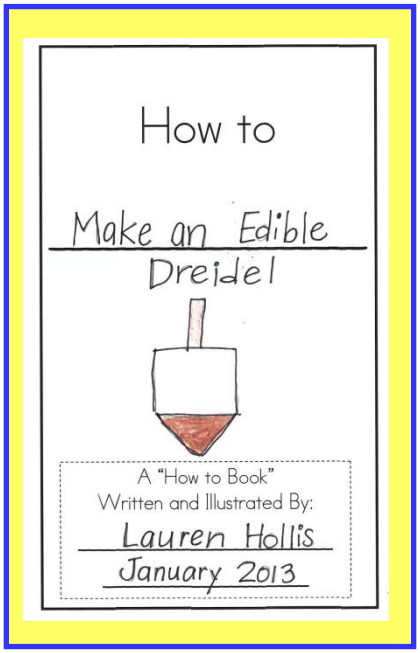
Welcome to Publishing!

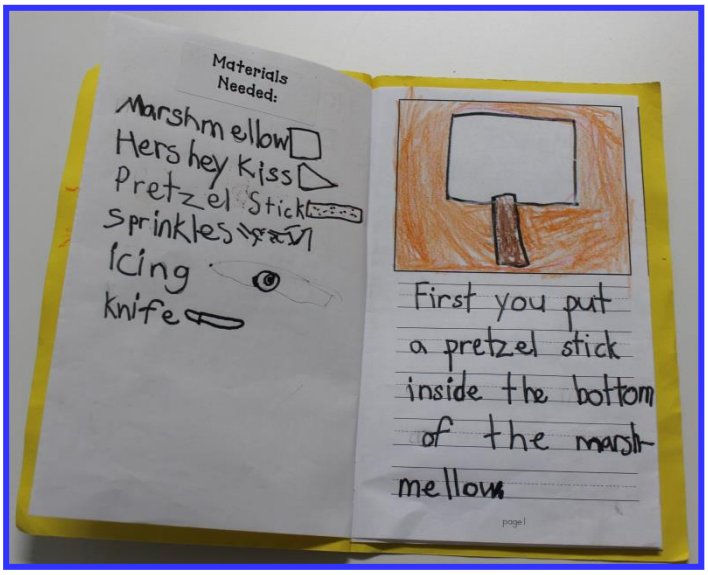
My students and I love to celebrate their hard work! We edit, revise and publish stories. I have included options for you to use for the final draft of your students published stories.

-students can edit and revise their writing on the graphic organizer and copy it onto the writing template.

-or students can write each step onto a page and assemble a book with a cover, title page and story pages.



Book Cover



The trick to this is to fold the pages in half and the fold goes on the outside edges so the pages are back to back. (preassemble the books before giving the books to your students) I have intentionally formatted the pages off center so when stapled the margins
