

COMPOUND & COMPLEX

SUMMER SENTENCE BUILDING

in
compound

the
compound

ocean,
compound

but compound

Alex
compound

prefers
compound

to
compound

swim
compound

in
compound

the
compound

hotel
compound

pool.
compound

Name George

Build it, Read it, Write it!

(A)

Annie calls her glasses shades, but I call mine sunglasses.

Andrew cheered, "Our sandcastle will win first prize in the contest, or we'll try again next year."

Javier wants to go snorkeling in the ocean, but Alex prefers to swim in the hotel pool.

I checked my writing for:

- capital letters → Ihe
- good spelling
- punctuation marks → (.,!?)

© Created By: Christina Winter

Included are 2 types of sentences

COMPOUND & COMPLEX

SUMMER Build and Write SENTENCES

image	page	complex sentences	image	page	complex sentences
	1 or A	When it's sunny outside, Billy always puts on his shades.		7 or C	When the temperature rises, the sun feels very warm on my skin.

SUMMER Build and Write SENTENCES

image	page	compound sentences	image	page	compound sentences
	3 or A	Annie calls her glasses shades, but I call mine sunglasses.		7 or C	Sunny days mean fun with family outdoors, but it's also time for safety and sunscreen!
	4 or B	Andrew cheered, "Our sandcastle will win first prize in the contest, or we'll try again next year!"		8 or C	Nothing beats a watermelon for a refreshing summer treat, or maybe you would prefer a cold glass of lemonade.
	5 or B	Javier wants to go snorkeling in the ocean, but Alex prefers to swim in the hotel pool.		9 or C	George shouted, "I scream for ice cream, and you love it too!"
	6 or B	California is a great place to surf, and Florida has incredible waves on the opposite coast.		10 or D	Mikey took his first airplane flight last summer, yet I have never been on a plane.
	5 or B	"I can hear the ocean in the seashell, or maybe it's just my imagination," Millie laughed.		11 or D	My family lights off fireworks every Fourth of July, and my neighbors come and watch.
	6 or B	Sailing is a popular pastime in my family, yet I have never been on a boat!		12 or D	The United States flag has stars and stripes, and it is also red, white, and blue.

OPTION 1: Students build, read, and record (compound or complex) sentences. Then self-edit using the checklist.

Javier <small>compound</small>	wants <small>compound</small>	to <small>compound</small>	go <small>compound</small>	snorkeling <small>compound</small>
in <small>compound</small>	the <small>compound</small>	ocean, <small>compound</small>	but <small>compound</small>	Alex <small>compound</small>
prefers <small>compound</small>	to <small>compound</small>	swim <small>compound</small>	in <small>compound</small>	the <small>compound</small>

hotel <small>compound</small> pool. <small>compound</small>

Name George

Build it, Read it, Write it!

(A)

Annie calls her glasses shades, but I call mine sunglasses.

Andrew cheered, "Our sandcastle will win first prize in the contest, or we'll try again next year."

Javier wants to go snorkeling in the ocean, but Alex prefers to swim in the hotel pool.

I checked my writing for:

- capital letters → Ihe
- good spelling
- punctuation marks → (, . ! ?)

OPTION 2: Students build & record a (compound or complex) sentence. Then they use the sentence as the beginning of a short story. Finally, students self-edit using the checklist.

washed <small>complex</small>	away <small>complex</small>	after <small>complex</small>	the <small>complex</small>
 tide <small>complex</small>	 came <small>complex</small>	 in. <small>complex</small>

Name Emma Build & Write a Story! ②

 Directions: Build the sentence and write it below correctly making sure to use proper punctuation. Then use this sentence as the start of a short story with descriptive details.

The beautiful sandcastle was washed away after the tide came in. My sister and I decided

 I checked my writing for:

<input type="checkbox"/> capital letters → I he	<input type="checkbox"/> punctuation marks → (.,!?)
<input type="checkbox"/> good spelling	<input type="checkbox"/> excellent story details

©2014 Mrs. Winter's Bliss

